DEMOCRATS SUGGEST CONRAD

the West Are Singing the Praises Men Coming Into Washington From of This Man Who Has Never Held a Public Office.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—The political gossips about Washington discussing the merits of their respective candidates for President that but little heed has been paid by either party to possible vice-president candidates. Out of the West, however, within the past week, there has come a suggestion on the Democratic side that is attracting more than the usual amount of attention among the leading members of that party. This suggestion contemplates the nomination of W. G. Conrad, of Montana, as the running mate for the Presidential nominee of the Denver Convention. Arguments of considerable force are advanced to show the availability of this favorite son of Montana and if he has accomplished only a portion of what his friends claim in his large field of activities, his name may be taken here in the East as a serious political factor in the coming campaign. Democratic leaders claim it is essential to make inroads in Western States heretofore Republican. In that region the labor vote preponderates. Mr. Conrad, his friends and neighbors say, is very strong with the labor vote, being an unusually large employer of labor himself and having never been the victim of a strike or boycott. He is also engaged in mining, lumbering and banking, and while a man of affairs is, his friends say, likewise, a man of the people. Men coming into Washington from the West are singing the praises of this man who has never held a public office and it remains to be seen if he will now enter the arena of national politics.

WHAT IT MEANS.

An article in the April issue of The Popular Science Monthly on "Our Inland Waterways," by Dr. W. J. McGee, secretary of the commission on this subject appointed by the president, gives an interesting historical survey. In connection with the conference of governors called to meet at the White House in May, he says: "So the events of the young century strikingly duplicate those immediately succeeding American Independence: Again questions of commerce and interstate relations have become paramount—and in multiplied magnitude and complexity; again it has become necessary to take stock of those material possessions on which the perpetuity of our people must depend—though now the land areas contemplated by the founders but the still greater values residing in waters and woods and mines and soils, which were inchoate then but have come into actuality and dominance through the natural growth and orderly development of the nation; again it seems necessary for a waterways commission to appeal from its own court to an interstate conference representing that highest tribunal, the people—though now the appeal can not result in a federal constitution (which came from the former in such perfection as to meet all later needs), yet can hardly fail to bring about a closer readjustment of the magnified sovereignties and multiplied possessions developed on that fundamental platform. The president has expressed the feeling that the May conference promises to be one of the most important assemblages in our history; and the people and the press have concurred with a unanimity seldom evoked, and giving assurance that the anticipation will be realized."

MOTOR BOATING.

Nearly every one who lives near a body of water of any size either owns a motor boat or has an ambition to own one. Many persons unable to afford a ready built boat have built their own launch either from paper patterns or by assembling. Many others have followed this plan purely from pleasure in the task. Motor-boating has become a great national pastime, declares the April number of Popular Mechanics, which goes on to describe all the types of motor propelled boats in use from a house boat to a life-boat. Business and pleasure are often combined in the use of these small craft and in many cases the income thus derived soon cancels the original outlay of money.

CALL BELL.

A western druggist, with an eye for business, extended his hitching post a couple of feet and placed an electric call bell at the top of it. Prospective customers, arriving in carriage or automobile, press the button without leaving their seats, and the drug clerk immediately attends to their wants. The same bell is used for night calls.—From illustrated article in April Popular Mechanics

A QUESTION OF TIME.

"I have no news, but I'll tell you a funny story," said Walter S. Harkins, of Chicago, at La Normandie, in refusing to be drawn into a discussion of Illinois politics. "A professor in an agricultural college had a hobby," said Mr. Harkins. "He believed and preached on all occasions that the food of animals should be cooked, just like that of human beings. One day, while out driving in the country, he passed a farm, the owner of which was standing in a pen near the road feeding to a drove of swine generous quantities of corn in the ear. This caused the learned theorist to stop, and forthwith hail the violator of his theory: 'My friend, don't you know it is wrong to give those hogs feed that has not been cooked? Don't you know that if you would cook that grain before issuing it they would digest it in just one-half the time it takes them as it is now eaten?' "Wall, stranger, suppose they would; I'll like to know what in the time is to a hog."

We are pleased to announce that Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs, colds and lung troubles is not affected by the National Pure Food and Drug law as it contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, and we recommend it as a safe remedy for children and adults. T. F. Laurin Owl Drug Store.

In 1903 Grover Cleveland wrote a letter stating that he would not run for a third term. The next year occurred the Parker blizzard, but Mr. Cleveland may think he could have cut down that 2,541,635.

A TWENTY YEAR SENTENCE.

"I have just completed a twenty years health sentence, imposed by Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which cured me of bleeding piles just twenty years ago," writes O. S. Woolever, of LeRayville, N. Y. Bucklen's Arnica Salve heals the worst sores, boils, burns, wounds and cuts in the shortest time. 25c. at Charles Rogers & Son drug store.

BOYCOTT STICKS.

HONG KONG, April 2.—A number of Chinese firms here offer to forfeit $50 for every cent worth of Japanese goods that can be purchased in their stores until after the boycott on Japanese goods is over.

EXPENSIVE SALE TO MINOR.

COQUILLE, Or., April 2.—E. A. Becket, saloon keeper of this place, was fined by City Recorder J. W. Kelley for selling liquor to a minor, $100 and costs.

A cough cure than can be given to children without chance of harm is Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It does not contain poisons or harmful drugs. Druggists sell it.

LIBERALS NOT ALARMED.

LONDON, April 2.—Mr. Lloyd-George, president of the board of trade, in a speech delivered last night said the government was not in the least daunted by the results of the bye-election in the Peckham district, in which the Liberal candidate was defeated.

This election, he declared, was merely the first skirmish in the war. The government, he said, would go on with its licensing bill, the second reading of which will take place on April 6.

Bad breath has probably broken off more matches than bad temper, and that's a good many. The best cure for bad breath is the tonic-laxative, Lane's Family Medicine.

AN INSIDIOUS DANGER.

One of the worst features of kidney trouble is that it is an insidious disease and before the victim realizes his danger he may have a fatal malady. Take Foley's Kidney Cure at the first sign of trouble as it corrects irregularities and prevents Bright's disease and diabetes. T. F. Laurin Owl Drug Store.
